With Vegana Naturawe want to provide natural, vegan food supplements that primarily help to support the immune system, increase performance and energy, and reduce stress, tiredness, and exhaustion. Muscle growth and vegan nutrition through vegan protein make sense in combination with nucleotides. Endurance is promoted and muscle growth is stimulated. There are already countless vegan dietary supplements and vegan protein preparations on the market today, which supplement important nutrients and promise muscle growth, better endurance, better regeneration, or weight management through meal replacement. What exactly distinguishes our products from the multitude of other existing dietary supplements? nucleotides! Nucleotides represent the basis of DNA and RNA and are the basic building blocks for cell reproduction, protein synthesis and energy transport. No muscle growth without nucleotides! Better recovery and endurance with nucleotides.
